War Results.

The Reform Republicans war fiercely on Grant, but they show no disposition to yield a jot on the question of war results.

Carl Schurz is perhaps the most determined foe Grant has, yet in his letter to the Missouri Republican Reform Convention he uses the following emphatic language:

"With the close of the war we entered upon a new period of our national development. New duties and new problems are confronting us and imperatively demand our attention. The old battle-cries and catchwords of political parties are gradually becoming obsolete. They will disappear entirely as soon as the public mind is satisfied that the logical and legitimate results of the war, the great guarantees of equal rights as embodied in the last three amendments to the Constitution, are safe beyond peradventure. I am satisfied that any attempt to overthrow them will result in ut ter failure, although it might lead to temporary confusion and disaster.

"We Liberal Republicans look upon these results of the war, constitutionally guaranteed, as the very basis of the new order of things, and we shall, as patriotic citizens, always sustain them with unwavering fidelity. This is the first article of our political programme."

B. M. Palmer.

This Southern divine is one of the strong minds of this age. He has a brain of as much polish and power as any leading man of the day. In a lecture on the "Tribunal of History," he thus strongly delivered himself:

"What Dr. Palmer was pleased philosophically to call Radicalism, was denounced as the foe of organized freedom and constitutional liberty. Parallels of history were drawn and the audience given to understand that they were expected to find appropriate counterparts in the present condition of the country. The struggle between the patricians and plebians at Rome for recognition and power, ending in the complete disconstiture of the latter was assigned as not only the basis of transition from the Republic to the Empire, but the orator found in the pride, cruelty and tyranny of the former the very seeds of decay and national ruin. It was thus, the speaker contended, that centralized power defeated itself and force was demonstrated to be the weakest of all agencies. Yet in the dust and ashes of empires overthrown, and civilizations corrupted, the speaker said there was a residuum of truth which would arise to vindicate the superiority of moral over physical forces in the just and retributive judgments of heaven."

"Vic" Woodhull on a High Horse Before Senator Carpenter.

Mrs. Woodhull had a personal encounter on Friday with Matt Carpenter in the lobby of the Senate, which, although not resulting in serious consequences, was of rather a threatening character. The fair revolutionist charged this grave and reverend seignor with treachery to the cause of which he had professed himself a champion—the enfranchisement of women—and denounced him in unmeasured terms, declaring herself determined to organize the female element against him, and all such as him. As the lady proceeded with a sketch of the plan of operations the Senator remarked: "The women of Wisconsin are all my friends." "Yes," replied Victoria, "and if rumor speaks truly you have lady friends belonging to other States." Mr. Carpenter suggested that she might get into Fortress Monroe if she was too free with her revolutionary schemes, to which she replied: "All right; if your people think that is a good thing to do do it; I have no objections." She assured the Senator in the most positive terms that for his treachery he should pay dearly, and that they would put five hundred female orators into the field against the Republican party, and the laugh, she declared, would then be on the other side of the face, when they went through the country giving the characters of the men now misrepresenting the people. The scene was a very funny one, and the female orator had rather the best of the talk; and as the successor of Doolittle backed out of the contest his hair presented a somewhat more unkempt aspect, and the shake of his head a decidedly less positive turn as he regained his seat, which had just been threatened so savagely.

The above incident took place on the 17th in Washington. We have been trembling in our boots ever since we read it, and if the doughty, warlike Victoria goes for us we speak beforehand for the services of our gallant woman suffrage champion, Col. Dunning.

We have, on several occasions, indulged in some humorous gibes at the expense of the petticoat voter tribe, and when we think of the possibility of an irate pannier coming at us retributively therefor, we get weak in the gills, and compunctions qualms sock over us like unto a tertian ague.

Save us! Save us!

The Railway Enterprise for Giving Us Cheap Coal.

RINGGOLD, GA., February 21, 1872.

Editors Constitution: During the recent term of the Superior Court holden here, and which closed its sittings on Friday last, a railroad meeting took place for the purpose of organizing the charter of the Atlanta and Lookout Railroad Company.

On Wednesday, 14th instant, Col. Hulbert, ex-Superintendent of the State Road, and Rev. C. W. Howard, editor of that sterling agricultural journal, "The Plantation," paid our town a visit—by special invitation of the citizens. Upon the fact being made known that these gentlemen would speak, the court room was filled with anxiously earnest listeners, including nearly all the leading men of the county.

The Honor Judge Combs, on being called to the Chair, at once introduced Colonel Hulbert, who, in a most practical, clear, and concise manner, set forth the vast importance of the Atlanta and Lookout Road to the State at large, and its consequences upon the value of every variety of property in and around the town, and the territory reaching from it to Lookout Mountain in Walker county. His remarks commanded gratifying attention. When he had concluded, Judge Combs presented Mr. Howard, who, with characteristic modesty and a ready appreciation of its merit, remarked that Colonel Hulbert's speech had exhausted the subject. The face of "the old man eloquent" burned as he fervently dwelt upon the deep interest awakened within him, whenever any matter was agitated touching the welfare and prosperity of his dearly loved Georgia.

At an adjourned meeting held the same evening, W. L. Whitman, Esq., presiding, and our worthy Clerk, O. B. Trimmier, officiating as Secretary, a call was made for voluntary contributions, to defray the expense of an instrumental survey of the route, in order to determine the cost of the road. The call was promptly responded to, the requisite amount has been subscribed, and a committee appointed, consisting of Messrs. Richard Peters and C. W. Howard, of Atlanta; Hon. J. R. Parrott, of Cartersville; and Messrs W. L. Whitman, of Catoosa; and James M. Lee, of Walker; to contract with a corps of engineers to at once enter upon the work.

When this road shall have been built, and Atlanta thereby furnished with coal at 33 per cent. less than now, it can hope to become a city. Respectfully, G. R. G.

The State University.

ATHENS, GA., Feb. 19, 1872.

Editors Constitution: To-day the anniversary exercises of the Demosthenian Society were duly celebrated. The orator on this important occasion was Mr. Arthur Gray, and nobly and ably did he sustain himself and reflect credit and honor on the society, that testified its high appreciation of the gentleman's merits by electing him to this position. Although the ladies were out in all their radiance and beauty; although the college chapel was gayly and tastefully bedecked; although there were the most inspiriting and ravishing strains of music discoursed by the spledid band present, still, by all odds, the creme de la creme of the day was Mr. Gray's inimitable and brilliant speech, which teemed and abounded with thoughts and reflections that would have done credit to older heads. His subject, "The Degeneracy and Deficiencies of the day as applicable to the American people," he handled with masterly skill and ability. Throughout his whole speech, there was one continuous and connected chain of reasoning, ideas and thoughts, supported and embellished by the choicest flowers and most congruous figures of rhetoric. He dissected with an unsparing scalpel Utilitarianism, and anatomized and cauterized with stinging satire the foul ulcer of immorality and mammon. His invective was powerful and merciless. The salient feature of his oration was that it was an entirely erroneous opinion that the cultivation of the imagination was productive of no practical benefit, citing Newton, who reasoned from the internal to the external, and thus discovered, to the eternal gratitude of mankind, the deductive method of reasoning. His speech of thanks to his confreres was but in keeping with the main body of his address. Being a ladies' man, and also richly meriting it, he was the recipient of numerous boquets. But consideration for your columns forbids a synopsis of this truly able and interesting address. HAFED.

Atlanta Manufactures—How They Can be Established.

They can be established by a combination of capital, and they can be successfully maintained provided the manufacturer can have a regular supply of cheap coal. They cannot be maintained without cheap fuel, cheap motive-power with which to propel machinery. Atlanta cannot become a manufacturing city with her present rates for coal. She cannot compete successfully with Northern manufacturers under existing circumstances. She must have cheap coal, cheaper even than that supplied to a majority of her competitors. Can she have this? Its importance cannot be overestimated.

Cheap coal, as the means of creative wealth, has never been equaled by any power within the control of man.

A cheap and constant supply of this wealth-producing power, is the most reliable means of prosperity ever yet bestowed upon a people.

Cheap coal has made England the first commercial power in the world.

Cheap coal, with her admirable system of railroads, has made Philadelphia the leading manufacturing city on this continent.

Cheap coal is the foundation of the wonderful growth and consequent great wealth of Pittsburg.

Cheap coal has made Cincinnati the Queen City of the West.

Cheap coal has made Cleveland the competitor and is rapidly making her the peer of Philadelphia, Pittsburg, and Cincinnati in solid wealth and power.

St. Louis, the young giant of the west, fully alive to the importance and absolute necessity for cheap coal in order to establish and successfully maintain manufactures, is making Herculean efforts to secure a constant and cheap supply of this Samson of modern development.

A constant and ample supply of cheap coal will make Atlanta the leading interior city of the whole South. Can she have it with her present railway system?

We maintain that she cannot, and will give our reasons for this conclusion.

Our existing railways in our mineral regions have cost full thirty thousand dollars per mile. These sections, in fact the whole South, has but one partially developed interest, that of agriculture, and a very sparse population, consequently a very light business, and in order to pay operating expenses and interest account they are necessarily compelled to charge very high rates on all their business. They cannot possibly give cheap freights and maintain themselves.

This entails high rates on both coal and iron, and instead of developing these wealth-producing sinews, absolutely locks them up in our hills and mountains.

What then is the remedy? Evidently a cheaper class of railways that can afford lower rates of freight than our present system, and at the same time pay operating expenses and interest account.

The narrow gauge railway will accomplish this desirable end. Costing not exceeding one-half of the broad gauge for construction, at 20 to 25 per cent. less to operate, they can afford to work at correspondingly low rates.

Let us test the two gauges by figures. Assuming that the Alabama coal fields are distant from Atlanta 135 miles, let us see the difference in the cost of transportation on a ton of coal from the mines to Atlanta.

On Northern roads, which are admitted to be better prepared to transport freights cheaply than are those of the South, the estimated cost of transporting freight is one and a half cents per ton per mile. On Southern roads it is greater than this, but we will estimate it to be the same. It will cost, then, to move one ton of coal from the mines to Atlanta, 135 miles, $2 02½ per ton, or $16 20 per car load of eight tons.

It should be borne in mind that these coal cars will, in a large majority of cases, be returned to the mines empty, thus largely increasing the cost of transportation on the coal.

The cost of transportation by the narrow gauge does not exceed one cent per ton per mile.

The cost of transporting one ton of coal 135 miles by the narrow gauge will be $1 35 or $10 80 per car load of eight tons, a saving of $5 40 per car load, in favor of the narrow gauge.

When we consider that the same relative saving would be effected on all other freights moved over the line, the question assumes an importance that we cannot in justice to ourselves ignore. Let us suppose that Atlanta had an unbroken line of narrow gauge road to Eastport on the Tennessee river, a the foot of the Muscle Shoals, navigable for steamers of the largest class at all seasons of the year to that point, and this road penetrating the coal and iron banks of Alabama giving cheaper rates for Western produce and coal and iron than competing broad gauge lines could possibly do; would not Atlanta merchants and manufacturers occupy a very enviable position?

Would her future then be doubtful? With a cheap line of railway to Eastport, owned and controled by herself and citizens, connecting at that point with steamers with their low water rates to all parts of the West and Northwest, her future would no longer be in doubt, but would be far better than that of any interior city in the great cotton belt.

This cheap line of railway with its cheap rates would offer to the people, on its line lower rates to Atlanta than any competing broad gauge could offer to them to a point equidistant, and hence Atlanta would become their favorite market in which to sell their products.

Atlanta merchants and manufacturers would be able to supply that section with dry goods, groceries, hardware, etc., etc., at less rates than by any competing broad gauge line. This then will give Atlanta the absolute control of that section.

These are serious questions to Atlanta and her business men, and it behooves them to give them a careful and earnest consideration, for the city's future progress depends upon the decision.

Unquestionably, if Atlanta can build a broad gauge road to Birmingham, she can build a narrow gauge via Birmingham to Eastport.

ATLANTIC AND GREAT WESTERN CANAL.

Special Message from the Governor of Kentucky Upon the Subject.

We give below, in full, the Message of His Excellency P. H. Leslie to the Legislature of Kentucky. This document is able, comprehensive and to the point, and takes a statesman's view of the question. We have long desired closer relations with the good old State of Kentucky, and hope, in time, to afford her a still better market for her surplus products. Should this grand work of internal improvement be built our harbors will become her seaports and our territory her great highway to the sea. We confidently look for a reciprocity of trade matters that will be vastly beneficial to both States.

We have one word for our State Agricultural Convention, which meets to-day in Savannah. There is no question so vital to our agricultural prosperity as cheap transportation for the heavy products of the field Let the convention give this matter a careful consideration, and let them take such action, either by a memorial to Congress, or by sending a committee from their body to represent the matter, in conjunction with committees from our principal cities, before the Federal Government.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
STATE OF KENTUCKY,
FRANKFORT, February, 1872.

Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives:

In compliance with the request of the Governor of the State of Georgia, I herewith transmit for your consideration a copy of a memorial of the General Assembly of the State of Georgia to the Congress of the United States.

The proposed canal therein referred to is of vast importance to the interests of this State. It will give to our products cheap transportation to the Atlantic coast through a country which is already one of our best markets, and it will form a much needed line of cheap transportation between the Northwestern and Southeastern States of the Union. The navigation of the Tennessee river is now being improved by the United States government. A great deal of work has already been done on that stream, and it will soon be navigable at all seasons of the year by steamers of light draft from its mouth to Chattanooga.

The proposed canal connects Guntersville on the Tennessee, with Gadsden on the Coosa river, a distance of but thirty miles. The Coosa river is now navigable from Gadsden, in Alabama, to Rome, in Georgia. The Canal route from Rome is up the Etowah river to a branch of that stream called Little river, and thence crossing the Chattahoochee to the head waters of the Ocmulgee and down that stream to Macon, from which point the Ocmulgee is navigable to the Atlantic Ocean. This brings the fine harbor of Brunswick and the port of Savannah in water communication with the Mississippi river and its tributaries. The length of the canal and stock water navigation in Georgia on this line is 148 miles.

The estimated cost of canal and river improvements in Georgia is ten millions of dollars. From St. Louis to the harbor of Brunswick—the estimated distance this route is one thousand and eighty-eight miles. An inspection of the map accompanying the memorial will discover at once the ease and facility with which this great water-way may be secured and made reliable from the great northwest to Savannah and Brunswick. It is safe to assume as a basis for calculating charges per mile on this route, those fixed upon the route by the lakes from St. Louis to New York, less the cost of transhipment; and on this data the cost of shipment of a ton of freight from St. Louis to the Atlantic coast of Georgia by the proposed new water communication will be $4 56, whilst the cost of transporting a ton of freight from St. Louis to New York by the lake route is $11 76, or by rail $16 50. This is a great and important public interest, and I hope the Legislature of Kentucky will heartily cooperate with the State of Georgia and other States in their effort to consummate the enterprise. Respectfully,

P. H. LESLIE.

But in the lovely eyes there's a violet shade of sadness that seems to tinge her eyelids, and the small mouth has a pleading quiver when she speaks of the insults the has received from women, when she has passed out of her door, and which keep her from taking the exercise necessary for health.—St. Louis Republican.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

Grant's Changes for the Presidency Injured—Removal of Disabilities—Public Buildings in Atlanta—Women Soldiers—The Income Tax—The Treaty.

WASHINGTON, February 19, 1872.

Congress is playing the deuce with Grant. Every week witnesses an explosion calculated to destroy his political future and put him out of the field as a candidate for the Presidency. His staunchest friends and advocates—Morton, Conkling, et. al—unintentionally, of course, are doing him deadlier harm by the attitude they assume in the Senate than his most determined foes. Sumner and Schurz are untiring in their assaults upon the President, and their exposure of the sale of munitions of war to the French government has created consternation and dismay in White House circles. Aside from the breach of international law alleged to have been committed, and which will certainly sour the German element toward the dominant party, it is susceptible of proof that a ring was engaged in this business, comprising Administration Senators, high officials, and men near the President. The reading of Senator Schurz out of the Radical party as a suicidal act, as with him will go a large majority of the German votes. Altogether, the future looks exceedingly bright for the Conservatives, and exceedingly dark for Grant. It is even doubted now that he will get the nomination, and Trumbull is talked of as the "coming man."

REMOVAL OF DISABILITIES.

The Georgia delegation Is untiring in its efforts to secure the removal of political disabilities from citizens of the State. I referred in previous letters to General Young's resolution instructing the Judiciary Committee to report a bill at an early day for the removal of the political disabilities of all who had petitioned Congress for that purpose, and to-day he will present the petitions of a large number. He has little hope of the passage of an amnesty bill this session, or of the passage of these individual bills, but will continue to present and advocate them, leaving the Senate to incur the responsibility for their defeat Since my last Mr. Speer has presented petitions from the following citizens of Georgia praying for the removal of their political disabilities: John Jones, Nathan C. Barrett, L. Carrington, George D. Cass and A. G. White, of Baldwin county; David J. Barber, D. D. Loyd, Spalding county; Philip M. Russell and Levi S. Hart, of Chatham county; and Wm. Ezzard, of Fulton county. Mr. Norwood has presented to the Senate a similar petition from John O. Ferrill.

CONGRESSIONAL NOTES.

Mr. Bigby has introduced a bill in the House to provide for the erection of a building at Atlanta for the use of the United States Courts, Post Office and Internal Revenue offices. Similar bills have been introduced for several sessions past but without avail. One bill of this nature has, however, passed the House this session and may pave the way for others.

Mr. Price has presented petitions from A. B. Nichols, Forsyth county, and Alfred H. Tousley, Milton county, praying for compensation as agents of the Bureau of Refugees, Freedmen and Abandoned Lands.

WOMEN SOLDIERS.

The women who served in the hospitals during the war, as volunteer nurses, are now before Congress asking for compensation. Dr. Mary Walker, the wearer of bifurcated nether integuments, has undertaken to lobby the claims through.

THE INCOME TAX.

The Ways and Means Committee of the House decided to-day to report in favor of the continuance of the income tax for another year.

THE TREATY.

The Cabinet meeting to-morrow will be the most important of the season, as the position this government is to assume with regard to the Washington treaty will be decided on. TOMMY HAUCK.

MILTON COUNTY.

A Home-Made Tornado—What It Did.

ALPHARETTA, GA., Feb. 17, 1872.

Editors Constitution: As you solicit accounts of passing events, I have concluded to give you a meagre account of a tornado that passed through our vicinity on Friday evening last, about dark. I do not know how far west it commenced, but I have heard from several miles in that direction, and it swept everything in its course, tearing down and uprooting large trees, fencing, gardens, etc., until it came within about three-quarters of a mile of this place, at the residence of Mr. G. F. Mayfield, former Sheriff of this county, when it appeared to redouble its violence, and unroofed every house of the place except a little fodder house. The dwelling house had the roof lifted clear off and scattered in all directions. Some of the parts have not been found, and some portions were found three-quarters of a mile from the building. The kitchen was torn to pieces and logs carried therefrom over seven inches in diameter more than three hundred yards, and one-half the roof carried, entire, some one hundred and fifty yards and dropped, one end of the rib-pole sticking a considerable depth into the ground. The smoke-house, the corn-crib, the stables, and the well curb and all out-houses entirely demolished and scattered.

The farms have suffered in like proportion by timber being blown down, fences scattered. The body of the tornado passed in less than half mile of this place. It traveled a little north of East in its course. It was not more than one hundred and fifty yards wide. I saw boards and pieces of plank more than one mile from where they were taken from. It is utterly impossible to describe wreck, as it is. To know how destructive in its course it was, you must see it. Strange to say, that of three families in the houses of Mr. Mayfield, consisting of some fifteen members, not one was injured, and no stock crippled, although one stable with horses in it, was raised from the ground by a large tree turning up by the roots, and another had a large tree to fall directly across it, and the horse could not be got out until the log was cut off. Only one hen and a goose killed. The damage done to Mr. Mayfield, alone, is estimated at $500.

Respectfully, O.

FRUIT FARMS.—The great profits of fruit culture can be fully recognized when we consider that a quart of good strawberries will sell for as much in Philadelphia, New York or Boston, as a bushel of corn will sell for in some places of the West. A fruit farm well laid out, cultivated, and attended to, is sure to be highly remunerative. Experience proves this fact. It requires no more industry or system than ordinary farming, but it does require that much. Strawberries last spring, paid at the rate of from $300 to $500 an acre. Last autumn grapes paid as much. In Vineland peaches have always been a sure and a paying crop. Even when they have failed in Delaware we have had good crops in Vineland. Twice as much will be done the present season in the fruit line than last year. An increased area of orchards and vineyards will come in bearing. New ones will be extensively set out, and the culture will receive more skillful and careful attention than heretofore on account of the profits realized from it the past several seasons.—Vineland Weekly.

AN ENGLISH TRIBUTE TO THE LATE CONFEDERATE, SO-CALLED.—A writer in the Pall Mall Gazette, thus describes what he saw in the late rebel States, so-called:

"With their houses burned, their cattle driven off, their fences destroyed, their black laborers all gone, all the white laborers migrated, the banks all broken, and all their money in confederate bonds, what can the people do? I was a month in daily communication with one man, who had been educated as well as I had been. He had served as aide de camp throughout the war. His house and property were utterly wasted. He had a small shanty for himself, wife and boy, with one hunchback negro, who had refused to leave them. He worked as an oyster-dredger, cheerfully, and his wife taught lessons in French. She had kept her piano. I never heard one murmer from either. I saw hundreds of like cases."

☞ President White, of Cornell University, in advocating the joint collegiate education of the sexes, adduces as a strong argument in favor thereof, the proposition that "men become more gentle and refined from the presence of women." Granting this, is not his view taken from a selfishly masculine standpoint; and is not the real question whether constant association with boisterous male youth may not render maidenhood "less gentle and refined?"

☞ An exchange says: "James Fisk, Jr., had on his person $11,000 worth of jewelry at the time of his death." It is really frightful to think of a man's firing into such a mass of valuable property as that.—Courier-Journal.

INDEX TO NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.—Benefit of Helen D'Este to-night at DeGive's.

Anderson & Wells have seed potatoes, onion sets, garden seeds, field and grass seeds, and other seeds, for sale low.

McNally & Daniel will sell this morning fine pianos, horses, gold watches, furniture, stoves, etc.

Messrs Anderson & Wells have for sale the "Farmer's Choice" fertilizer, containing the elements of plant food in the most natural proportions.

The attention of our ladies is directed to the advertisement of the Florence Sewing Machines.

ANTIQUE.—We saw yesterday, in front of E. Van Goldtsnoven's, some box-wood plants half a century old!

LARCENY AFTER TRUST.—Justice Johnson will have a case for larceny after trust to day, in which eminent counsel are employed.

GOV. SMITH.—His Excellency Gov. James M. Smith left on Wednesday evening for Columbus, and is expected to return on Monday next.

MULTUM IN PARVO.—An ash-barrel in front of C. H. Strong's office is marked, "potatoes," at the top, and, "Oates" in the center. A strange medley for one barrel.

PERSONAL.—We regret to learn that David J. Meade, one of Governor Smith's secretaries, is confined to his room by indisposition. We trust to see him at his post soon.

CARRYING CONCEALED WEAPONS.—Jordan Alexander (colored) was committed to jail yesterday by Justice Butt, in default of bail, on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

A CREAMY JOKE.—That lively wag, H. C. Sawtell, received a few days ago some fresh and fine butter. He placarded it as butter made from the milk of the cow that kicked over the lamp that fired Chicago, and sold it out right off.

TELEGRAPHIC.—Owing to the time of Judge Erskine being taken up yesterday in hearing argument, the case of the Western Union Telegraph Company vs. the Western and Atlantic Railroad Company was continued until this morning.

HAVING TOO MUCH BRASS.—James Clegborn, colored, was committed to jail yesterday, in default of bail by Justice Butt on a charge of stealing fourteen car brasses from the Western and Atlantic Railroad Company.

MORMONISM.—Prince Williams, colored, was arraigned before Justice Smith yesterday, on a charge of living with two females. Prince concluded to settle one of the cases by marrying one of the females, and risk a trial on the other case.

DEGIVE'S.—A full house was attracted to this place of amusement last night to see Miss Helen D'Este in the emotional play of "East Lynn." In the dual characters of Lady Isabelle and Madame Vine, Miss D'Este was exceedingly effective. It gives instinct and fire to her play of passion and holds the audience spell bound with its power and effect. Listening to her no one failed in giving due tribute to the genius of the artist. She thrills us with the emotions she feels herself. She becomes identified with the character, and is electrified with its singular but powerful emotions.

The character of Sir Frances Levison, though not an attractive one, but repels, was well impersonated by J. R. Scott.

The Archibald Carlyle, of F. A. Tannehill, was excellent.

The evening's entertainment concluded with a glorious farce, in which Mrs. Tannehill made friends with the audience in her specialties.

STRANGE EFFECTS OF VINEGAR(?)—A few days since the landlady of a certain boarding house in this city, sent out for a gallon of vinegar. The servant brought back the jug, and the cruets were filled with the supposed vinegar. At dinner the landlady perceived that her guests were using the vinegar(?) pretty freely, and she was compelled to have the cruets refilled several times. The vinegar(?) had a strange effect. The ladies began to chatter like magpies, and some of the younger ones began to tell of love scenes. The ladies looked decidedly spiritualle, though their tongues rattled as fast as a sewing machine. The gentlemen grew spirited, and talked with vehemence and volubility. Several members of the Legislature were present. One imagining himself in the Representative Hall, cast his eye on the youthful wearer of a blonde chignon, and addressed her as "Mr. Speaker! I call the previous question." Upon an examination of the jug the so-called vinegar proved to be—corn whisky.

MRS. J. A. OATES.—This favorite of our people has determined once more to visit us and cheer us with her warblings and her sparkling and vivacious personations upon the stage of the Savannah Theatre. Her brief season will commence on Monday evening next, and the sale of reserved seats will open at 9 o'clock this morning at Schriener's Music Store. It is useless for us to predict a great success for the charming little lady, for that is a foregone conclusion. Everybody in Savannah knows that Mrs. Oates never fails to crowd our spacious theatre to its utmost capacity.

The bill selected for the opening performance is an excellent one, and the repertoire for the entire week is as brilliant and varied as could possibly be arranged. We are gratified to notice a tendency on the part of the youthful manageress to improve her performances in accordance with the growing taste for more legitimate amusements. We notice that in the whole list of pieces announced there is but one burlesque, and that is of the most genteel character.

The "Prima Donna of a Night," with which Mrs. Oates opens her season, is a comic opera by Offenbach, in which she appears to the most bewitching advantage, never failing to convulse her entire audience without in the least offending the most delicate taste. In fact, it is a characteristic of this charming lady never to commit an impropriety, and for that as much as her vocal and dramatic abilities is she admired by the public.—Savannah News.

THE GEORGIA NATIONAL BANK CASE.—Hon. A. T. Akerman yesterday concluded the argument, in behalf of the Bank, in the above case. He spoke for three hours. He said that the motion to enjoin rested on the points, that equity would restrain a trespass where common law was inadequate, and that in the case at bar the common law was inadequate owing to the nature of the property seized, or trespassed on, and the insolvency of the trespasser. The seizure was not authorized by the process under which Captain Anderson acted.

Under the laws of Georgia the articles seized were not subject to levy and sale. Wherever a common law court will sustain an action for trespass a Court of Equity will grant an injunction to restrain. The laws of the United States Court give the District Court jurisdiction. In the case of Devaux the charter of the old United States Bank did not give it the right to sue. Under the banking act United States banks can sue in any courts where a suit will be entertained against them. The right to sue and be sued is general and not limited.

In the case mentioned in 7th Howard, where a District Court attempted to interfere with a State Court, the attachment of the State Court was held to be a property attached, because the property lien on the was attachable.

In the case at bar, the property attached is not lawfully before the State Courts. A lawful seizure brings it before the State Court; an unlawful one does not.

Capt. Anderson has acted outside of his process and without authority. The bond affords no protection where the seizure is not authorized by the attachment.

Judge Stephens—Is not a levy part of the case?

Akerman—So much as is lawful is.

Judge Stephens—The levy goes before the court from which it issued who determines its lawfulness or unlawfulness.

A non-resident can sue an officer of court in any court where the law gives him the right to sue. The Bank has the same right as a citizen of any other State. The wrong doer cannot force the party trespassed upon in a court of his own selection. No property becomes a part of the cause unless lawfully seized.

Judge Stephens—The levy covers all the property seized.

Mr. Akerman read the 11th section of the recovery bill to show that no case could be dismissed or compromised without subjecting the party to imprisonment. The Governor who attempts to control these proceedings proposes to release certain property.

Judge S.—The gentleman misunderstands what I said. Governor Smith proposes to recommend to the General Assembly to relieve the general depositors. No levy has ever been made on special deposits.

An authorized levy is not a part of the cause, and the court authorizing the levy cannot take jurisdiction.

Judge S.—The question grows out of the levy.

A State will not protect an officer in unauthorized acts.

Was Captain Anderson acting inside or outside of the process?

The process authorized him to seize only what was subject to levy and sale under the general laws of the State.

The local laws of a State determines what property is reached by attachment. Books, papers, money, etc., are not attachable.

The law (Recovery Bill) under which the attachment was issued must be construed with the federal law of the land.

He read from page 518, of the 15th Ga., Miller vs. Phillips, Sheriff, to show that the meaning of the word "all" was not exclusive but limited. In the recovery bill the word "all property" means "all property subject to attachment." It does not mean exemptions.

This authority not having been furnished at the commencement to Judge Stephens he was allowed to reply to it.

Judge Stephens remarked that the Recovery Bill did not use the words "real and personal" before property, because it had enlarged the powers of the attachment. The last statute, if it made more comprehensive terms cannot be cut down by older statutes. The homestead law does not seek to provide a man with a home out of another man's property. The Recovery Bill is a remedial act, and is to be construed liberally to advance the remedy. The object of the bill was to reach property not reached by other statutes.

Mr. Akerman resumed by saying that Judge Stephens' construction of the bill would strip a family of everything.

The bill warranted the seizure of "all the property of the defendant" subject to attachment. Books, letters, etc., were never held subject to levy and sale.

Money under the law of Georgia was not subject to levy and sale. How ridiculous to sell anything for itself!

The bill itself marked the distinction between money and property. The author of that bill was a lawyer who knew the import of words, and drew the lines between money and property.

Chief Justice Marshall's opinion in 1st Cranch does not bear on Georgia. In the case of Douglas the money was taken by consent. In the case cited in Charlton's Reports the question was as to the distribution of money. The Court had a right to enjoin a continuing trespass as one uncommenced. The publication of the private papers of the bank was a trespass.

Judge S.—No private papers have been subjected to inspection.

The reserve fund was for the benefit of all the creditors, and not for the benefit of one against all the rest.

The validity of the debt to the State was a question for the State court, and could not come up before the District Court.

The bill for injunction was not as full as it ought to be, because Captain Anderson had possession of the books, etc.

Judge Stephens—The officers of the Bank have not been denied access to them.

Judge Erskine reserved his decision.

It is but justice to remark that Messrs. Mynatt and Stephens having made the same points, we elaborated more fully the speech of Judge Stephens than that of Judge Mynatt. Judge M. made a strong, logical and concise speech.

TALLULAH FIRE COMPANY.—This active, indomitable and live company celebrated their thirteenth anniversary yesterday. Tallulah is endeared to our citizens by her devotion to duty. The Fire Department is justly proud of her. Owing to the muddy condition of the streets the parade was omitted. The boys, however, took the steamer to the cistern in front of the Capitol and tried her powers. She threw through 100 feet of hose and 1¼ inch nozzel a solid stream 284 feet 5 inches.

The boys returned to their hall and proceeded to the election of officers with the following result:

President—W H Patterson.
Vice-President—J M Willis.
Secretary—M H McWhorter.
Treasurer—J R Parks.
Delegate—E M Berry.
Surgeon—W H Coe, M D.
Foreman—C P Steadman.
First Director—W C Sparks.
Second Director—W J Warlick.
Third Director—T A Johnson.

Bugler—W L Hensler.

Tallulah numbers 125 gallant and true members.

At 9½ P. M. the company, with their invited guests, preceded by a band of music, proceeded to the Kimball House to partake of a magnificent supper.

Among the invited guests, we noted members of the Fire Department, members of Council and representatives of the press.

Much to the regret of all, the President elect, Capt. W. H. Patterson, was prevented by indisposition from attending.

The supper was a magnificent affair, and was discussed with zest by all.

Regular toasts were announced at the close.

ETIWAN FERTILIZERS!

THREE VERY SUPERIOR ARTICLES are offered by the Sulphuric Acid and Superphosphate Company of Charleston, South Carolina, viz:

ETIWAN GUANO.

A complete manure, adapted to Cotton, Grain and Tobacco, being the well known article heretofore offered at the very high grade of 15 per cent. dissolved Bone Phosphate of Lime, with the addition, as heretofore, of Peruvian Guano, Ammonia and Potash. Price $55 per ton, if paid on or before the first of April next, and $60 per ton, payable 1st November, 1873, without interest.

HOW IT STRIKES THE COUNTRY.—In New York, Philadelphia, Washington and elsewhere the Connecticut Democratic nominations and platform have created a profound impression. The Democrats and conservative Republicans, and all opponents of the existing corrupt administration, hail it as an evidence of an approaching union of anti Grant men, of all parties, in the ensuing Presidential struggle. The Springfield Republican says: "The movement of the Connecticut Democracy is, indeed, a startling and inspiring one: It is a warning that the Republican party cannot disregard without fatal consequences; it is the bold beginning of a political revolution that will either drive the Republican party from the nomination of Grant, or defeat him in the Presidential election.—Hartford Time.

☞ A clergyman was once endeavoring to get subscription in aid of some charitable institution out of a close-fisted parishioner, who attempted to excuse himself on the ground that he already owed a great deal of money. ☞ An Episcopal clergyman, meeting Barnum, the showman, the other day, after inquiring for his health, physical and spiritual, said, "Barnum, I always liked you. Bullock, late Governor of said State, and divers bonds issued prior to his administration, have been negotiated by him: And whereas, it is believed that a large portion of said bonds have been illegally and fraudulently issued and negotiated, and the extent and amount of said bonds so issued and negotiated is unknown to this General Assembly.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Georgia, That there shall be a committee appointed of three, one by the President of the Senate, and two by the Speaker of the House of Representatives, who shall have full power and authority to examine and ascertain the number of bonds which have been issued as herein before recited in the preamble of this act, and the aggregate amount thereof; and so far as they have been sold or hypothecated, by whom sold, the amount of money paid, to whom paid, when paid, for what purpose negotiated, and all other facts connected with the history of said bonds, and to report the same to the General Assembly at its next session.

Section 2. Be it further enacted, That said committee so appointed, be authorized and required to meet and sit in the city of Atlanta during a term not exceeding sixty days, commencing March 1, 1872, for the purpose named in the first section of this act, and said committee are hereby invested with full power and authority to examine witnesses under oath, to send for persons, books and papers, and to exercise such other power as may be necessary to carry into effect the provisions of this act.

Section 3. Be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of said committee, immediately after their appointment to give notice of the time and place of sitting by publishing this preamble and act, at least two months prior to their sitting, in two newspapers in the city of Atlanta, two in the city of New York, two in the city of London, and one in the city of Frankfort.

Section 4. Be it enacted further, That all persons holding bonds of the State of Georgia, or bearing the indorsement of said State, issued since July, 1868, are hereby required to report the same to said committee for registration on or before the first day of April, 1872, and upon failure so to report said bonds, and to submit the same for registration, the same shall be deemed prima facie to have been illegally or fraudulently issued.

Section 5. Be it further enacted, That the Treasurer of said State, be, and he is hereby prohibited from paying any interest on any bonds issued, negotiated or indorsed by the State since the 4th day of July 1868, until said Committee shall have made their report and the General Assembly shall otherwise direct.

Section 6. Be it further enacted, That nothing contained in this act shall be so construed as to pledge the State of Georgia to the payment of any bonds issued or indorsed by the State since the 4th day of July, 1868, by reason of said bonds being registered as prescribed in this act, should it afterwards appear that the same have been illegally or fraudulently issued.

Section 7. Be it further enacted, That the Governor be and he is hereby authorized and required to draw his warrant upon the Treasury in favor of said committee or such persons as they may designate for an amount sufficient to defray the expenses of publishing this preamble, and such other printing as may be necessary to carry into effect the provisions of this act.

OFFICE SECRETARY OF STATE,
ATLANTA, GA., December 12, 1871.

The above and foregoing four pages of written matter contain a true and correct copy of the original of file in this office. Given under my hand and the seal of office.

DAVID G. COTTING,
Secretary of State.

To all whom it may concern:

Notice is hereby given, that we, the undersigned joint committee, appointed by the President of the Senate and Speaker of the House of Representatives, under authority of the foregoing act of the General Assembly of Georgia, will begin our sittings in the city of Atlanta, State of Georgia, United States of America, on the first day of March, 1872, and will remain in session until the first day of May, 1872, for the purposes indicated in said act.

The attention of persons owning or holding the bonds of the State of Georgia, or the bonds of railroads indorsed by the State of Georgia, and who expect to present the same to the committee, is called to the first section of said act, as to the nature of the testimony required.

Persons desiring to communicate with the committee will address Thomas J. Simmons, Chairman, care of N. L. Angier, State Treasurer, Atlanta, Ga.

Signed at the Capitol, in the city of Atlanta, State of Georgia, United States of America, the 12th day of December, 1871.

THOMAS J. SIMMONS,
On the part of the Senate and Chairman of Joint Committee.

GARNETT MCMILLAN,
JOHN I. HALL,
On the part of the House.

DR. R. V. PIERCE, of Buffalo, N. Y., in his book on Chronic Diseases, says in regard to his Golden Medical Discovery, with which our readers are familiar: "From its wonderful power over Consumption of the Lungs, I had thought strongly of calling it my Consumptive Cure; but from the fact that it is a perfect specific for the sore throat and hoarseness to which ministers and other public speakers and singers are subject, and also for Bronchetis, and all severe coughs, and is an invaluable remedy for diseases of the liver, and also as a Blood Purifier, I decided not to apply to it a name which might mislead and prevent its use in other diseases for which it is so admirably adopted.

"It will cure a cough in one-half the time necessary to cure it with any other medicine, and it does it not by drying it up, but by removing the cause—subduing the irritation, healing the affected parts."

This valuable medicine is sold by all first-class druggists. feb20-dcod1w&w1t

FOUR MILLIONS OF INVALIDS.—At the lowest computation there are not less than four millions of invalids in the United States. Of the number probably more than three-fifths have been driven to patent medications necessary for the preservation of health, and are suffering the punishment due to their carelessness. If the multitudes who are now afflicted with billousness, indigestion, rheumatism, intermittent fever, irregularities of the bowels, general debility, nervous disorders, etc., had at the very first symptoms of indisposition, invigorated, regulated and purified their systems with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, two-thirds of them would at this moment be performing the active duties of life, unannoyed by any ailment of the body or mind.

This assertion is made advisedly. It is founded on experience, and is born out by the testimony of a countless host of witnesses whose attestations cover almost every variety of disease, and extend over a period of about twenty years. Of every thousand persons who take the Bitters, as a preventive of the complaints above enumerated, seven-eighths escape them entirely; and of every thousand who are actually attacked, and use the great Vegetable Tonic as a remedy, three-fourths are radically cured. These are not hap-hazard assertions, but statistical facts. They are based upon the results of inquiries made by more than fifty thousand persons, in various parts of the country, and upon the letters of prominent citizens of every state, it might almost be said, of every county in the Union. feb20-decd1w&w1t

YEAS AND NEIGHS.—If horses could make themselves understood in human language, they would signify by an universal "Yes," their assent to the statement that the Mustang Liniment is the best remedy extant for all these external ailments, and by a most emphatic "Neigh!" show their displeasure at every attempt to use any other preparation in its stead. Ever since its introduction at St. Louis, at the close of the Mexican war in 1849, it has proved a signal blessing to horse and man—curing, with absolute certainty and wonderful dispatch, such equine diseases as spavin, ringbone, poll evil, scratches, hoofale, etc., and relieving and finally removing the painful affections which attack the muscles, sinews and external glands of human beings. It is a fact beyond contradiction that for all injuries or complaints of man or quadrupeds to which an external remedy is applicable, the Mustang Liniment is preferable to every other. feb20-decd1w&w1t

A HOUSEHOLD NECESSITY—Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder and Special Flavorings. So elegant are the cakes and pastry made with them, that no person will use any other after one trial.

feb20-decd1w&w1t

AN EXPENSIVE NUISANCE.—Sickness is an expensive nuisance; generally makes people selfish, and, nervous, mean, and miserable. To escape these dreadful troubles, keep the blood enriched, the nerves strong, by using Dr. Price's Blood Enricher, before the disease has taken a firm hold. This remedy contains the agents in proportion calculated to impart physical and mental vigor. If not found at one drug store, will find it at another. Ask for Dr. Price's Blood Enricher.

feb13—decd2w&w2t

VALUABLE AND RELIABLE.—"Brown's Bronchial Troches" are in valuable to those exposed to sudden changes, affording prompt relief in coughs, colds, etc.

feb20-d3t—tues-thur-sat

I HAVE been a dyspetic for years; began to use the Simmons' Liver Regulator two years ago; it has acted like a charm in my case.
